When I’m 65 is a groundbreaking national documentary and engagement program exploring how our financial and lifestyle choices today affect the whole of our lives.

When Social Security was established, the average life expectancy of an American was 63 years. In 2014, the average life expectancy of an American increased 15 years to 78.

When Baby Boomers began their careers, they expected to retire on a combination of Social Security, personal savings, and corporate pensions. Then came the 401(k), and the 2008 recession.

Contact your local PBS station for air dates

To participate in the engagement program and register for updates,

VISIT www.WI65.org
#WI65